GUIDED TOURS

Students move around the Village with a guide giving an insight into early hill's life; the services, school procedure, transportation, industries, migrants and how the settler's used their environment and their way of life from 1860's to 1920's. Comparison will be made from the early years to today's world and discussion is initiated about the social, cultural and technological changes from the past norms to present day society. In addition, there are a range of hands-on activities to suit each age group or can be chosen by request at the time of booking.

Core Areas - delivered by our guides

School: Students will sit at old fashioned timber desks in the original Kalamunda State School and interact in olden day class activities, including the use of slate boards or writing with pen & ink, manners, discussion about teacher's role, discussion on discipline and left-handedness.

Settlers Cottage: The students will see how the settlers lived, and how life was before scheme water and electricity. They will discuss differences to their home life, such as being self-sufficient, how they kept their food cold, the use of candle light, carting water from the well or rain water tank, lack of sanitary conditions and overcrowding - 8 people living in a four roomed cottage, and no computers or TV!

Orchard Shed: + Blacksmith: Experience the sorting of fruit using old farm equipment, and explore what the blacksmith did in days gone by. Discuss the methods and materials used in the making and manufacturing of everyday items.

Hands-on Activities - three per tour

A Brief History of Kalamunda:

Timber brought the first European settlers into the area in the 1860's. The Canning Jarrah Timber Company built the railway, including the Zig-Zag, from Midland to Canning Mills in 1891 to carry out timber. In addition the railway serviced the quarrying of granite, laterite and gravel that was used for building the roads of Perth as well as the transport of local goods. The Soldier Settlement Scheme in 1919 boosted the population and resulted in a flourishing orchard industry. Between the two World Wars, Kalamunda was famous as a resort and there were numerous guest houses. There was no scheme water in the area until 1954. Before that, people collected water in rainwater tanks or from wells. Subdivision followed the introduction of scheme water leading to the Perth suburb of today.
